

Using a Subpoena in Family Court

This guide gives general information for the applicant or respondent in a family law case who wishes to ask the court to issue a subpoena. It does not explain the law.

Court staff can give general information on how the court works, and about court rules and procedures. Court staff cannot

What is a subpoena?

A subpoena is a court document that requires a person to give evidence at a court proceeding. The subpoena tells a person that they must come to court at a certain date and time to give evidence to the court. They may be required to give evidence by either coming to court to answer questions, or bringing or providing the court with documents, or both.

Why might I need a subpoena?

If a person or representative of an organization refuses to come to court or is unable of their own free will to come to court, and you will need them or documents they have to prove your case, you may ask the court to issue a subpoena. The subpoena will require them to come to the court on a certain date. You will need to pay witness fees to anyone you subpoena.

Before you ask the court officer to issue a subpoena, you should talk to the person you want to call to court to testify or to a representative of the organization that holds the documents you want to subpoena. Find out:

- if they have the desired documents
- how much it will cost to locate and copy the documents
- whether they will provide copies of the documents that you want without the need for a subpoena

Based on this information, ask for only what documents you will need to prove your case. Avoid paying to have documents produced to the court that may be irrelevant and unhelpful.

When must I serve the subpoena?

Serve the witness with a subpoena as early in the court process as possible. At a minimum, serve the witness with the subpoena 2 days before the court date. Do not include Saturdays, statutory holidays, or the day of the court date, or the day of service when counting the 2 days. This is called 2 clear days.

For example, if the court hearing is on a Monday, serve the witness on the previous Wednesday. Thursday and Friday are the 2 clear days. If the court date is on Wednesday, serve the witness on the previous Friday. Monday and Tuesday are the 2 clear days. However, if Monday is a holiday, serve the witness on the previous Thursday. Friday and Tuesday are the 2 clear days.

How to subpoena a witness in the Family Court of Nova Scotia

Step 1

Identify the need for a subpoena.

Step 2

Get a subpoena form. A Family Court subpoena form, Form 8, is attached and can also be found at www.gov.ns.ca/just/regulations/regs/fm25290.htm. You can also get a blank copy of the forms at the court administration office in the court house.

Step 3

Fill in the subpoena form with the required information. Make an additional 3 copies of the subpoena—one for the person being subpoenaed, one for you, and one for the court.

Step 4

Take the original subpoena and 3 copies to the court administration office. A designated court officer must sign a subpoena before it is valid. (At Family Court, this person is a justice of the peace.) The court officer will decide if the subpoena complies with the rules relevant to the court case. If the court officer is satisfied with your subpoena and signs it, they will give you back the original and all copies but one, which will be kept in the court file. This is called “issuing” the subpoena.

Step 5

Serve (deliver) the subpoena by personal service. You must arrange for it to be served personally on the person or organization that you have required to come to court. You cannot use registered mail or fax the person who you have subpoenaed. To serve the subpoena on a person or on an organization that you are requiring to come to court, you or a person you choose must do one of the following:

- hand a copy of the subpoena to the person
- if it is an incorporated company, hand a copy of the subpoena to a chief officer of the company or to the registered agent of the company

You must have the original subpoena with you when you serve the person or organization that you have required to come to court. If they request it, you must show them the original subpoena.

You should pay witness fees to the person you have subpoenaed to court. These must be delivered with the subpoena. Witness fees are $5 per day in court plus 20 cents per mile (12 cents per kilometre), calculated one way from the witness’s home to the court. Witness fees are traveling expenses to enable the witness to come to court. Pay the witness fees in cash.

If you want to hire someone to serve the subpoena, look in the yellow pages under “bailiff” and “process servers.”

Step 6

Prove that the subpoena was served. The person who delivers the subpoena must complete the affidavit of personal service on the back of the subpoena form. It will tell the court the name and occupation of the person who served the subpoena. It will also tell the court the name of the witness who was served, and where and when they were served. The Affidavit must be signed in front of a commissioner for taking oaths. This can be done at a lawyer’s office, and at the court administration office. Call ahead to these offices to make sure someone will be available to “take the affidavit”. There may be a small fee for this service.

File the subpoena and affidavit with the court before or at the hearing date to prove that the witness, or the documents, or both, were subpoenaed.

To subpoena a professional person to give expert evidence, there are special rules. (Civil Procedure Rule 31 and Family Court Rule 10) You will be responsible to pay for the expert’s time to prepare for court and to come to court.
