

Disclaimer Statement

The Nova Scotia Courts website and the websites to which we link explain the law in a general way. As each person's case is different, the websites are not intended to provide legal advice about a specific problem.

We try and ensure that the information on the Courts website is current, however, the law is ever-changing. The most recent changes are not always reflected on the website. We have no control over the currency of the information on the websites to which we link.

For these reasons, these websites do not replace the specialized advice of lawyers and other experts.

The links to other websites are provided for your convenience. The Courts of Nova Scotia do not endorse these websites and are not responsible for their contents.

This website and all of the information it contains is provided "as is" without warranty of any kind, whether express or implied. All implied warranties, including, without limitation, implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, and non-infringement, are hereby expressly disclaimed.

Limitation of Liabilities

Under no circumstances will the Courts of Nova Scotia be liable to any person or business entity for any direct, indirect, special, incidental, consequential, or other damages based on any use of this website or any other website to which this website is linked, including, without limitation, any lost profits, business interruption, or loss of programs or information, even if the Courts of Nova Scotia have been specifically advised of the possibility of such damages.